True Colors

Our days at Tell City High School are made up of a variety of things. We will always miss TCHS, including the good times and the bad times. It could be the teachers, our classmates, or the Friday pep sessions. High school really brings out our True Colors. When we started high school we were all nervous or a little shy, but we managed to get through it. Our True Colors really started to show through the years here at TCHS. We seniors have a lot of good memories to reflect on: Girls' Cross Country going to state, hanging out at the pool and the high school parking lot with all of our friends, and showing our Marksmen Pride at sporting events, just to name a few. After high school, our True Colors will become even brighter as we take on new obstacles and start our lives as adults. We will have to learn to make it on our own as we start a new chapter in our lives. We all look forward to getting out on our own and making our own decisions, but deep down inside most of us are going to miss this place in the end. Even as we start our lives after high school, we will always remember TCHS and always have a little red and white in us. Most of us have a part of each other and of TCHS inside us that we will carry with us after graduating high school. It will take a while for our Marksmen pride to fade. If someone asked us where we went to high school, we will all be proud to say that we attended Tell City High School. Now that high school is over for the class of 2006, don't forget to keep letting your True Colors come out. If things get tough in your adult life, don't give up and continue to strive for what you want most in life. Always reach for your dreams and what you have always wanted.

Taking advantage of their twenty minutes of Go Red, juniors Zach Zuelly and Nathan Straneva skim through magazines.

Getting everyone into the Christmas spirit, Mr. Hayes dresses up as Santa Claus during the last pep session before Christmas Break.

Freshman Michael Saalman poses for the camera after getting pied in the face at a pep session which honored football homecoming candidates.

Seniors Adam Saalman and Lucas Alvey express their excitement to each other after the seniors won the spirit jug at a pep session.

Marksmen spirit is everywhere. This Marksmen spirit logo is from a banner that is in the hall of the class, who wins the spirit jug competition.

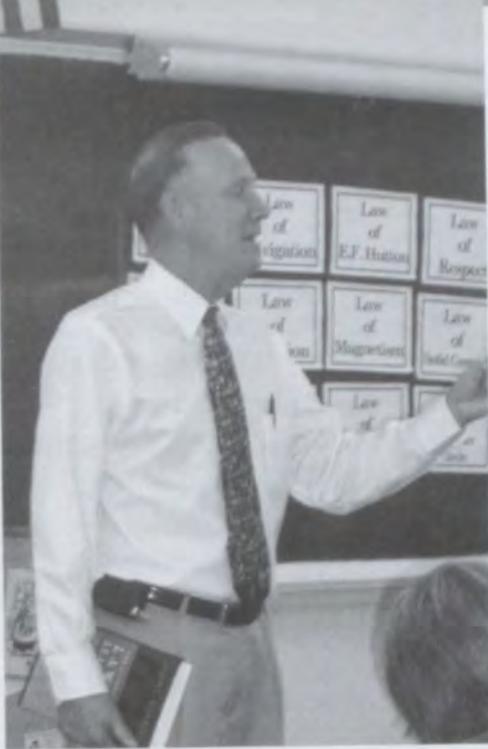

Showing their school spirit in the Lawn Decorating Contest for football homecoming were the seniors. They were the first to have their design complete.

Trying to cheat during Superhero Jeopardy, Mr. Alvey tries to get an answer over Mrs. Goodrich's shoulder. Wonder Woman won, Underdog (Mr. Page) came in second, and Superman was dead last.

Total Chaos

Encouraging the 4th period Renaissance Leadership class, Mr. Stewart gives a very motivating speech. The Renaissance class has a big influence on a lot of things happening around the school.

How did you feel as you walked in the doors for the first time? Were you nervous, excited, or absolutely terrified?

What was your first high school parade like? Were you nervous about everybody watching you? Did you work on a float, walk in the parade, or duct tape yourself to the hood of a truck?

Who swooped down from the ceiling to save Robin from the Penguin and the Riddler? Mr. Stewart, of course! Or maybe we should say Batman.

Whom did you go to the Christmas Dance or Prom with? Do you remember the themes of those dances? Do you remember who was crowned King and Queen?

When did you find out that finals were one and a half hours long? What did you think when you found that out that you get to leave early from school finals are over for the day? What did you do at Spring Fling? Did you swim or play a game?

What did you think about at graduation? Were you nervous or excited? As you walked across the stage, did you think about all the times you had or all the times you will have?

Freshmen Orientation, Fall Sports Extravaganza, Homecoming, Academic Pep Rally, Christmas Dance, finals, Prom, Spring Fling, graduation: No matter what, you will never forget this year at Tell City High School, a year in Total Chaos.

Having fun during the Marksmen Yell, senior Cody Cail wears a red and white Tell City helmet while running around the cheerleaders and hitting whatever he can find, which is usually the drumline's jam block or cow bell.

Jill Hammack's costume at the SADD Halloween Dance had everybody frightened. She went as a sumo wrestler, complete with a mask to conceal her identity.

SWIRLIN' INTO A NEW YEAR

Before the big pep rally begins, the volleyball team sits on a truck during the parade. Junior Kelsey Malone, sophomore Kara McClintic, freshman Molly Richmer, and freshman Lindsey Noble are awaiting the start of the Fall Extravaganza which was held on October 14.

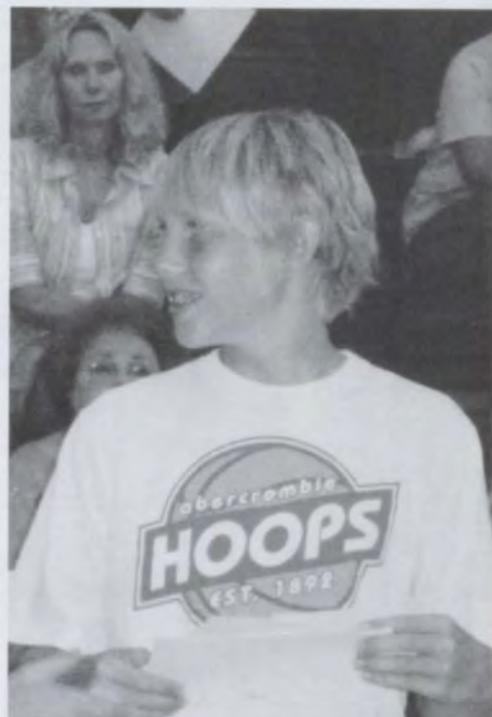

Junior Nick Duncan helps the incoming freshmen find their schedules. He also gave the freshmen their locker combinations and their agendas.

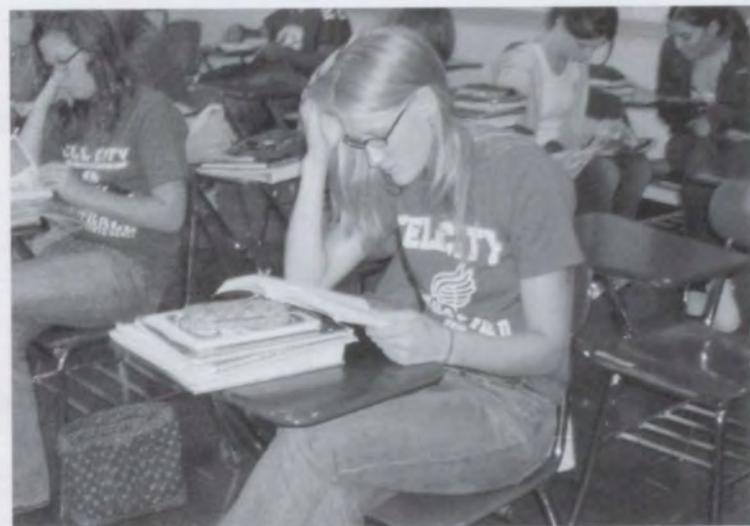

As the first day of school began on August 16, 2005, the students filled the halls with a hint of excitement. The students had a fresh start to swirl into a new school year. As the new school year began, there were a few changes made. The school changed the lunch schedule. Tell City now has two lunches, A and B. The lunch schedule changed due to the closed campus policy for the sophomores and freshmen. Also changed is the Go Red bell schedule. Now students go to Go Red after third period, instead of before first period.

The first few days of school were a little hectic," says freshman Monica Perryman. They were hectic due to all the new changes, especially the lunch schedule. As the freshmen filled the halls of their new environment, they were nervous and full of excitement.

Waiting to sit down at lunch, sophomores Daniel Scott and Eric Henrickson pay for their food before they eat.

Freshman Andy Kast is about to go check out the high school for the first time. He found all the classes on his schedule at orientation.

During Go Red, junior Jessica Fenn is concentrating on her book in Mrs. Aubrey's class.

Cheering to the school song at a fall pep session, sophomores Chelsea Bryant, Katie Clemens, Connie Dixon, and Whitney Heck are all smiles.

And The Winner Is...

TCHS students and staff members kicked off Football Homecoming by dressing up for spirit days throughout the week. Spirit days were Hats and Shades, Red White and Crazy, and Team Logo. Underclassmen attendants were freshmen Lindsey Noble and Michael Saalman, sophomores Marleen Roettger, and Brandon Leiberling, and juniors Cassie Litherland and Seth Young. King candidates were Cory Anson, David Bieber, Judd Brown, and Brandon Harrison. Queen candidates were Amanda Albin, Nicole Baur, Kayleigh Kast, and Christy Tempel.

Despite the chilly weather, students and guests crowded the stands. The queen and king candidates strolled down the 50-yard line and waited anxiously for student council members Marianne Krueger and Tina Reed to announce the queen and king. The student body chose David Bieber as their king and Christy Tempel as their queen. "I felt honored and excited to be named queen," said Christy Tempel. Student council held a dance afterwards with an attendance of over 100 people.

SUPER HEROES VS. VILLAINS: ACADEMIC PEP RALLY

Wonder Woman, Superman, and Underdog compete in Superhero Jeopardy. Wonder Woman won the game.

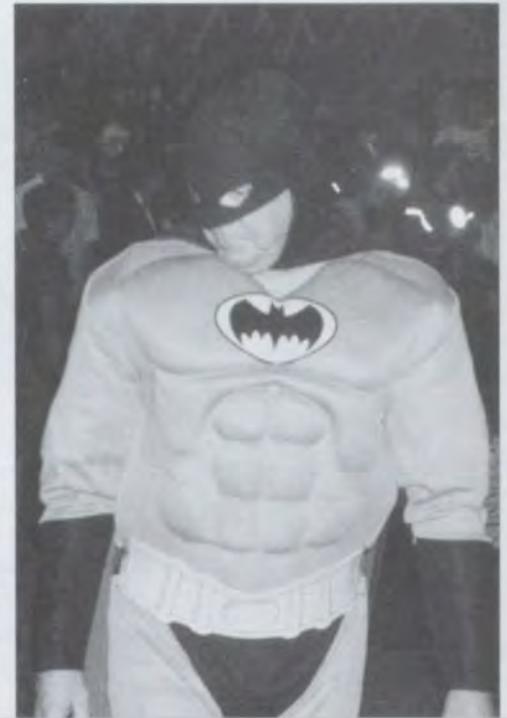

On October 14, Superheroes battled Villains at the Academic Pep Rally. Tell City's heroes, students who excel in academics, were recognized for their many achievements. They were recognized for a wide range of accomplishments, from good attendance to honor roll.

The Renaissance Leadership class, with the assistance of Mrs. Kehl and Mrs. Cassidy, sponsored the pep rally. They spent many hours during class and after school preparing for it. They held a display case competition between the juniors and the seniors. Each class filled their cases with figurines, televisions playing movies of their superheroes, and other memorabilia. The senior class had Ninja Turtles and the juniors had Spiderman. After a schoolwide vote, the seniors won the contest, so the juniors had to do a skit at the pep rally.

At the pep rally, Batman swooped down from the sky to save his sidekick Robin from Riddler and Penguin. Well, not really. Batman was Mr. Stewart, Robin was Mr. Goffinet, Riddler was Mr. Lacy, and Penguin was Mr. Hall. Hulk, played by Brandon Harrison, and Captain America, played by wrestling coach Joe Litherland, had an intense wrestling match, with Hulk coming out victorious. Dr. Gene Ress and Nurse Haller saved Chase Litherland from "Bad Grades, Bad Attitude Syndrome." Students and staff competed in an obstacle course, and everyone watched Superhero Jeopardy with Mrs. Goodrich dressed as Wonder Woman, Mr. Dave Alvey as Superman, and Mr. Page as Underdog. Mr. Bill Alvey, dressed as Hulk, boogied down with a group of "old women," who were Ms. Wooldridge, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Glenn, Mrs. Hess, Mrs. Doogs, and Mrs. Alvey.

Mrs. Cassidy said that the goal of the pep rally was to "recognize students and staff for improvements made, and to encourage others to follow suit." She said that they had accomplished this goal. She said that her favorite aspect of the pep rally was watching students take ownership of Renaissance and the pep rally itself.

Mr. Stewart, dressed as Batman, prepares to hand out prizes to the students who were being recognized at the pep rally.

Ms. Wooldridge and Mrs. Alvey smile for the camera in their old lady costumes. The "old ladies" had the privilege of dancing with Hulk (Mr. B. Alvey) during the pep rally.

THE CALL OF FALL

Screaming at the top of her lungs, Senior Krystal Lawalin shows her school spirit while standing in the back of a truck during the Fall Sports Extravaganza Parade.

Freshmen Drew Fortwendel and Jordan Rhodes strip down and cheer for their peers at the Legion Field. Fall sports teams were recognized during the pep session.

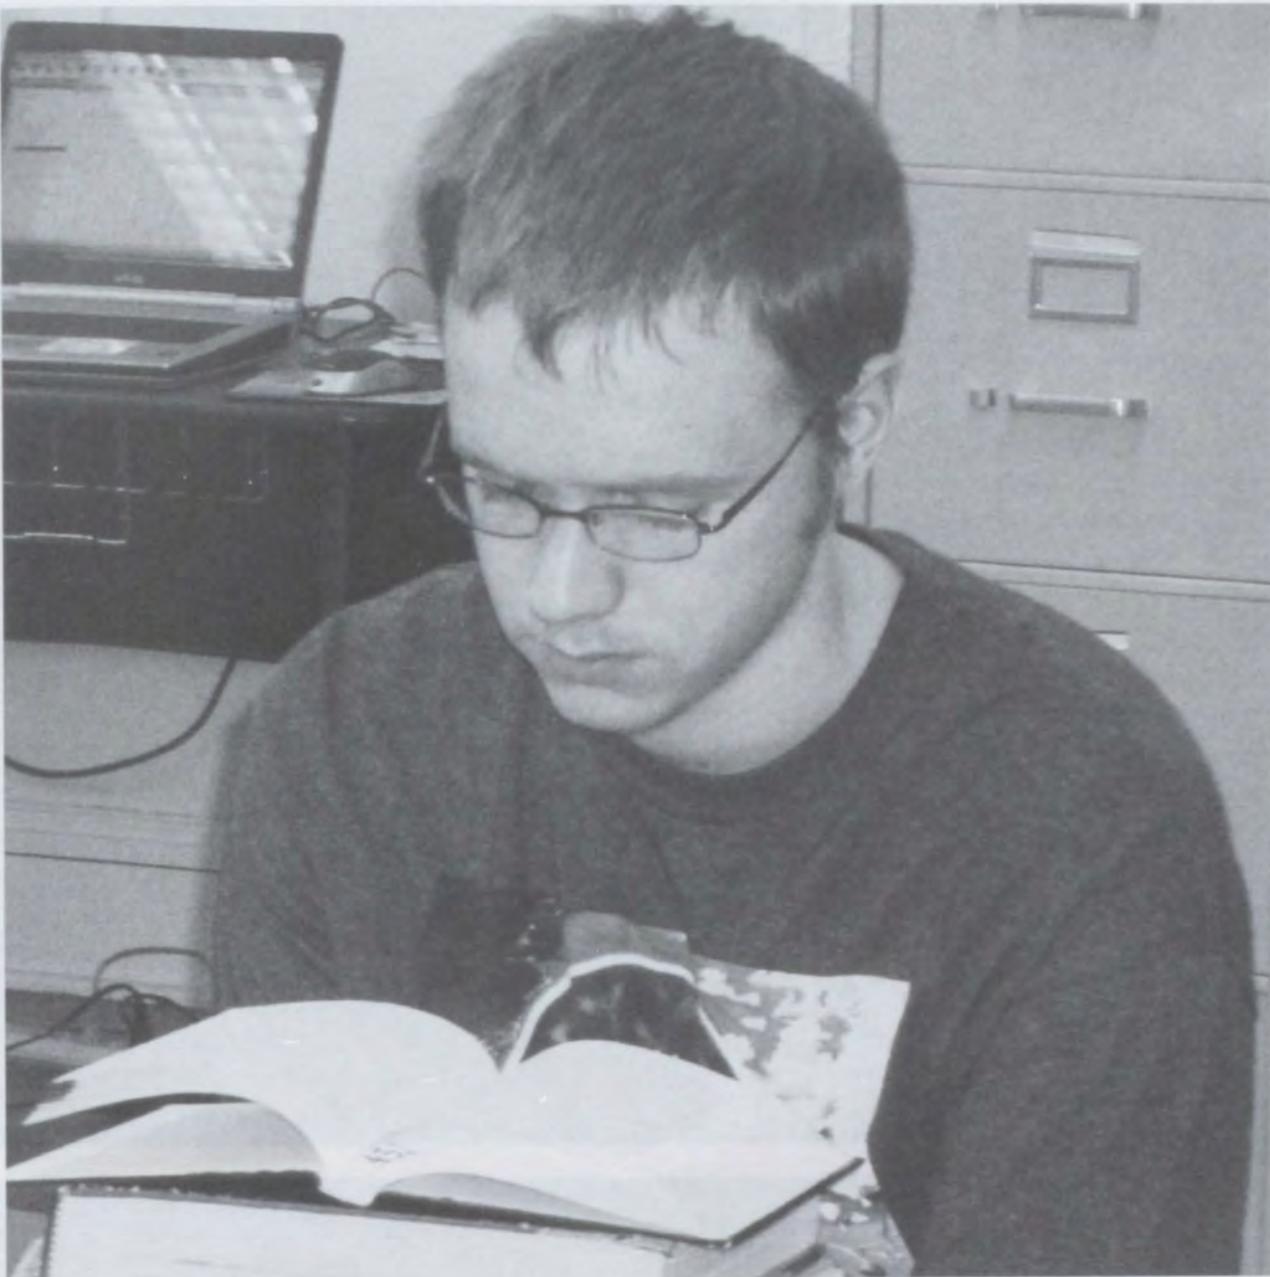

There was a call for rain, but the night turned out to be perfect. Everyone was fired up. The parade started on Main Street and ended at the Legion Field.

At about 7:30 P.M., the recognition of all the fall sports took place. Everyone was cheering for their peers. No one was left out. There were cheers and shouts for everyone that went out onto the Legion Field. The funniest part of the program happened after the recognition. It was when all the senior fall sports athletes had to get out on the field and spell out MARKSMEN using their bodies. It was total chaos and very amusing because no one knew where to lie down.

Before the dance started, they announced that the Pep Club won the float contest with their William Tell boat. The dance had a nice turn out. It was different from all the other dances because the radio station 105.7 the Party sent the DJ. The music was bumpin', and some students even requested Kelly Clarkson for Mr. Lacy.

Junior Olivia Kleeman reads a novel during Go Red. This period during the day allows students to read uninterrupted for 20 minutes.

Trying catch up on her reading, junior Megann Hanks reads during Go Red in Mrs. George's room, where she is surrounded by other juniors with names from Gravemier to Jefford.

Logan Woodriddle reads a magazine during Go Red. This period was developed by Reading Renaissance to improve the reading skills of students.

Dancin' in a Winter Wonderland

The Winter Dance was held on Saturday, December 17, 2005 from 8:00 p.m. until 12:00 a.m. in the auxiliary gymnasium. There were 350 people in attendance. The theme for the dance was "Winter Wonderland." Chris Hawkins of Livin' Loud was the D.J.

The Student Council, who sponsored the event, put in many after school hours preparing for the dance. They made the gym a true winter wonderland. They created a ginger bread house, they had a fireplace, and they even had a chocolate fountain, which students really seemed to love. They used the fountain to put chocolate on pretzels and marshmallows. Senior Student Council member Whitney Litherland said that the fountain was, "a tasty treat for the snack area."

Mrs. Cassidy, Student Council sponsor, said that she enjoyed every moment of the dance. She said, "I loved the entire evening; watching everyone dance, all of the help from the chaperones, and having staff come in." She said that one of the challenges that they faced was that student council members became ill two days before the dance that they could not, "give their normal 110%."

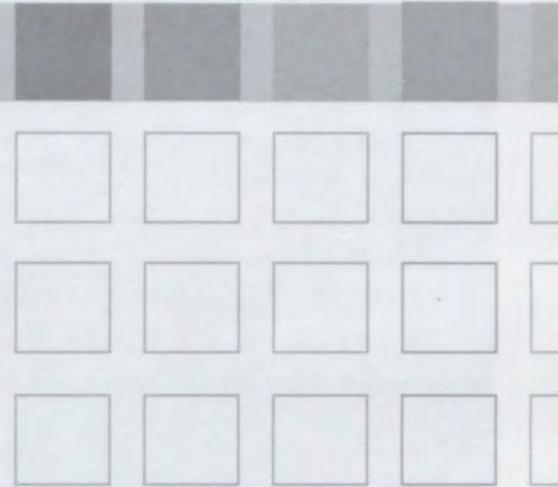

The dance overall was a very big success. The decorations were great, the music was bumpin', and most importantly, the student body had a really great time.

Seniors Kayleigh Kast and Christy Tempel boogie down at the dance. Christy shoots a seductive stare across the room.

Senior Amanda Albin and Sophomores Chelsea Bryant and Casi Hay stop dancing to pose for a picture. Amanda Albin said, "My last winter dance was a good one."

Junior Megann Hanks "works it" on the dance floor. Megann's favorite part of the dance was listening to the music and dancing with all of her friends.

Before going to their fourth period class, freshmen Michael Saalman and Stephanie Posey gather all their books and needed materials.

While working in heating and air class, senior Kevin Damin is making a cabinet for Mr. Sommers.

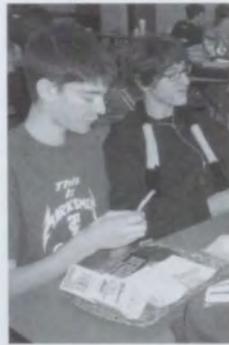

The pep block anxiously waits for the varsity game to begin. The boys' basketball team played Paoli and we won the game 67-36.

Building a dinner table in heating and air class, junior Zach Zuelly and senior Dane Wheatley look closely at what they need to add to the table.

During a home boys' basketball game, senior Sarah James and junior Tricia Kessens play the school song to get the crowd pumped.

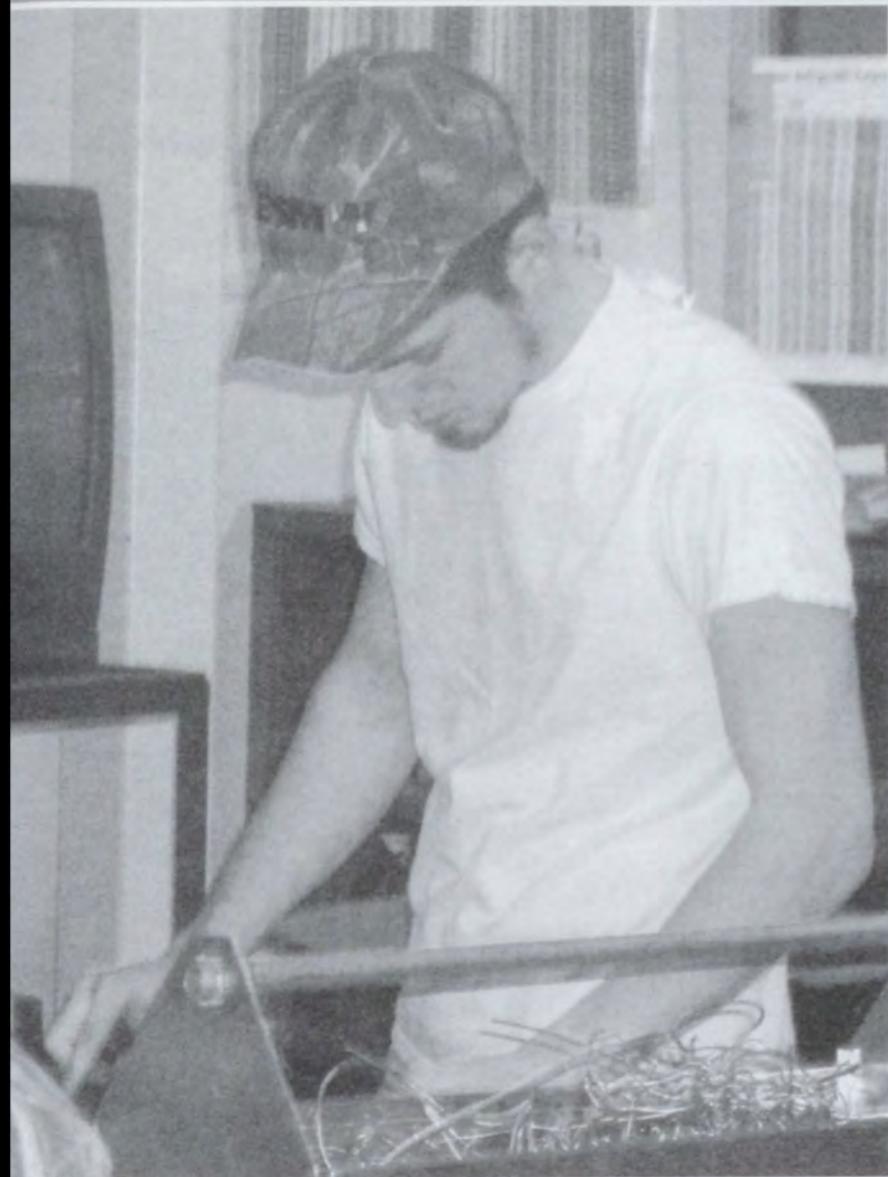

Hanging out in the cafeteria, junior Joey Hollinden and freshman Jay Kleeman sit down to enjoy their lunch.

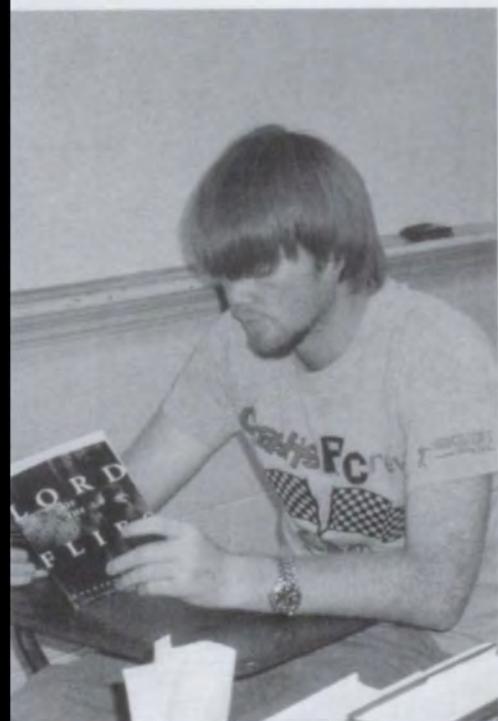

Surfing the world wide web during band class are freshman Lacey Padgett and sophomore Robyn Applegate.

In Mrs. George's Go Red class, junior Caleb Gravemier gets comfortable and reads his book.

Waiting for the Fall Sports Extravaganza to begin are senior Wendy Carter and junior Tina Reed, who are excited to see what the school has in mind for this year's festivities.

Waiting for the results of which class showed the most school spirit during the pep session, the seniors are getting very excited to see who won the Spirit Jug.

Royalty at the Basket

Homecoming took place Saturday, January 14th, in the Bryan Taylor Sports Arena before the South Spencer game. The homecoming court included freshmen Britney Hendershot and Jesse Stow, sophomores Marianne Krueger and Cody Pfiefer, and juniors Alicia Doogs and Gregg Schipp. Seniors were Amanda Young and Judd Brown, Lauren Braunecker and Cory Anson, Samantha Briggeman and Brandon Harrison, and Amanda Albin and Chase Litherland. Every one of the candidates looked exceptional. For the senior candidates, no one really knew who would win. It would definitely be close. Then when student council members Whitney Litherland and Wendy Carter announced Brandon Harrison as the 2005-2006 TCHS Homecoming King, most thought that Samantha Briggeman would surely receive the queen title because Brandon and Samantha have been dating strong since 8th grade. Sure enough, the Homecoming King and Queen titles were given to Brandon Harrison and Samantha Briggeman. After Samantha was crowned and she and Brandon were taking their places as king and queen, King Brandon gave Queen Samantha a kiss. It was adorable. Because of their long-standing relationship, basketball homecoming with Samantha and Brandon as king and queen was seen by many as a fairy tale.

Homecoming was a successful event, thanks to Student Council and tons of fans. Student Council even held a homecoming dance open to all TCHS students after the basketball game. The homecoming court attended, and everyone had a good time.

Junior Kris Kast helps tie up one of the hundreds of balloons for prom. The juniors spent hours working during the week of prom and stayed late setting up the night before.

Junior Brad Richter hoists the canopy, which was part of the centerpiece for the prom. After a few tries, the juniors and class sponsors were able to raise the decorations to the ceiling.

Sharing a slow dance together are juniors Kelsey Malone and Gregg Schipp.

Juniors Sara Hess and Nick Duncan put balloons into the balloon fountain. Like many of the other decorations, the balloon fountain was constructed at school during the week of prom and then made its way to the Schergens Center the night before prom.

After being crowned TCHS Prom Prince and Princess, juniors Nick Duncan and Tina Reed pose for a few quick pictures together.

The Tell City High School Junior and Senior Prom was held on April 29, 2006 from 8:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m. at the Schergens Center in Tell City. This year's theme was "Saharan Sunset." The prom song was "Wonderful Tonight" by Eric Clapton. This year's DJ was Chris Hawkins; he brought the screens to show off the students' dancing skills. The junior class spent many hours preparing decorations for prom.

The crowning of royalty began around 10:00 p.m. The nominees for the prince, princess, king, and queen lined up to await the crowning.

STUNNING SAHARAN SUNSET

The prince was Nick Duncan and princess was Tina Reed. Ryan Cassidy was elected king, and Amanda Albin was chosen as queen.

The After Prom began at 12:00 a.m. and ended at 4:00 a.m. on Sunday morning. The theme for the After Prom was "Magic Carpet Ride." Parents had a variety of games set up to keep all the students entertained for the four hours. This year volunteers set up a place where students could have their picture taken with a cut-out of the characters from the movie Aladdin. There was also plenty of food for the students to enjoy, including pizza, breadsticks, and cookies.

Senior Wade Franchville and junior Myra Dauby share a slow dance together to a song played by DJ Chris Hawkins.

HILLBILLIES GONE WILD

Freshman Kourtney Kast, junior Courtney Dauby, sophomore Alisha Patton, and senior Kayleigh Kast dive in to fill up their mouths with Kool-Aid and race to fill up a cup. These girls participated in Fear Factor in the band parking lot.

Junior Tina Reed wallows in paint during Fear Factor. Students' hands were tied and they had to cover the canvas in paint using their bodies.

This year's Spring Fling was a success. After second period, the seniors reported to the cafeteria for their pizza party and senior awards. The underclassmen reported to the auditorium to receive their departmental awards. All of the classes were offered an outside lunch of grilled hamburgers and creek fries courtesy of the Alveys. After lunch, students reported to the auditorium for Hillbilly Homecoming.

Then students congregated to the band parking lot to watch Fear Factor, a new event at Spring Fling. Contestants were forced to eat cow tongues and perform physical activities. After Fear Factor, students were able to participate in the Slip 'n' Slide, cards, Dodgeball Tournament, volleyball, Hillbilly Golf, washers, and the Titanic Boat Races. Senior Kristin Fischer said, "The Slip 'n' Slide was awesome this year because it didn't rip." The weather started off cloudy and rainy, but it turned into a beautiful day. Hot 96 provided music, t-shirts, and soft drinks for the students. Student Council hosted Spring Fling again this year.

Sliding down the Slip 'n' Slide, sophomore Cody Braun, freshman Shane Flamion, and freshman Jordan Rhodes have a blast at Spring Fling.

Giving it his all, junior Brandon Berger rows his boat across the pool during the Titanic Boat Races as his teammates cheer him on.

As King and Queen of Hillbilly Homecoming of Spring Fling, seniors Jacob Zellers and Ashley Jefford are thrilled to win.

Mr. B. Alvey looks on as he stands on the auditorium stage during Hillbilly Homecoming for Spring Fling. Mr. Alvey's red hillbilly pajamas were a big hit, even though he didn't win homecoming.

Sophomore Alisha Patton flashes a smile under a layer of flour. Alisha played Fear Factor where she was doused with flour in a game called Flour Power.

Showing his best (or worst) hillbilly teeth, senior Will Pappano waits patiently as hosts Mr. Lacy and Mr. Whitaker read his profile for the student body. Will participated in Hillbilly Homecoming.

Breakin' into Spring

Posing for a picture at Universal Studios in Orlando, Florida are junior Travis Wroe, freshmen Andy Brunner, Ben Stiles, Michael Saalman, Tyler Albin, and senior David Bieber.

Juniors Jordan Dauby and Morgan Whitaker chill out in the pool. They were trying to keep cool while they vacationed in Jamaica with Morgan's family.

Seniors Erin Fordyce and Samantha Briggeman goof off while trying to pursue a game of pool. They rented a cabin in Gatlinburg, Tennessee with a group of seniors for spring break.

Freshman Brianna Powers, juniors Alicia Wint, Megann Hanks, and senior Lesley Perryman stop outside their hotel, the All Star Music Resort, for a snapshot. The girls went to Orlando, Florida with the band over spring break.

Seniors Cassi Baumeister, Rivaye Sitzman, and Kristin Fischer stop for a picture on a pile of bears. The girls were in Gatlinburg, Tennessee searching for cuddly bears in the Boyd's Bear Factory.

ONE FINAL GOODBYE

The seniors had been counting down the days until graduation all year. Senior Samantha Briggeman said, "I had my own countdown in my locker since the first day of school." The final day for seniors ended with graduation practice on May 25th. One day later, the class of 2006 met one last time for their commencement. Graduation was held at 7:00 p.m. on Legion Field with beautiful weather. Parents and teachers of the graduates sat on the field while other spectators sat in the stands and watched proudly.

The graduates started off the ceremony by walking out onto the track and to their designated seats. Senior Class President Wendy Carter opened the ceremony by welcoming the graduates and guests. Student Council President Tomi Jo Utley followed the welcome with an opening prayer. Salutatorian Heather Heck then encouraged students to be their best by using a quote that Mrs. Kehl often spoke in her classroom. Valedictorian Luke Alvey encouraged all of his classmates to do something great with the potential given to them. Honor Graduate Kassie Zellers discussed all of the memories from the Class of 2006 and encouraged students to succeed out in the real world. Senior Class Secretary Whitney DuPont followed Kassie's speech by instructing the Class of 2006 to turn their tassels to the left side. Vice-President Whitney Litherland closed graduation with a prayer, and the class marched off into a circle for one final good-bye. The senior class officers stood in the middle of the circle and started chanting the words "Na, na, na, na, hey, hey-ey, goodbye." The class finally tossed their caps in the air with feelings of excitement, anticipating what lies ahead.

Jarrod Linne, Matt Link, and Jacob Lindauer wait anxiously in line as they make their way to the stage to receive their diplomas from Mr. Lacy.

Matt Aldridge and Brook Aldridge listen intently as Honor Graduate Kassie Zellers speaks to her classmates about their history together.

At the end of the ceremony, seniors proceed to form a circle around their seats for the cap toss.

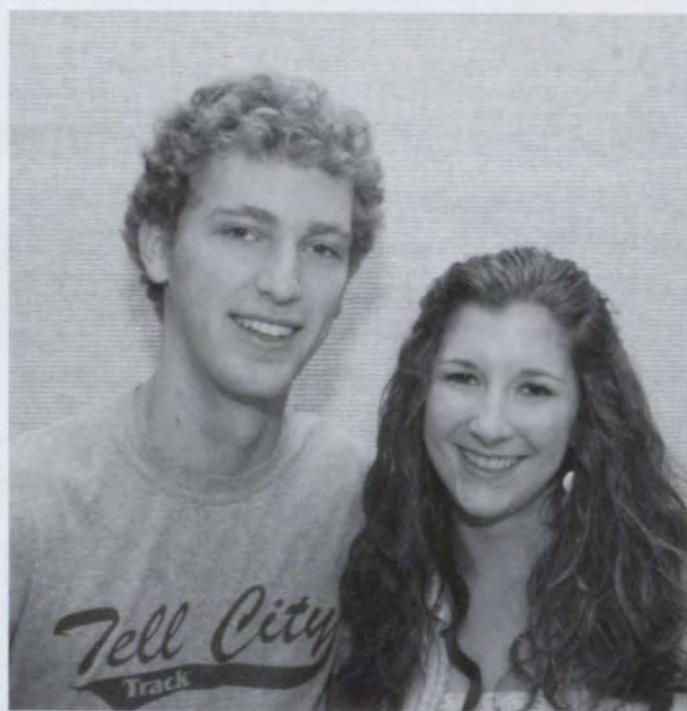

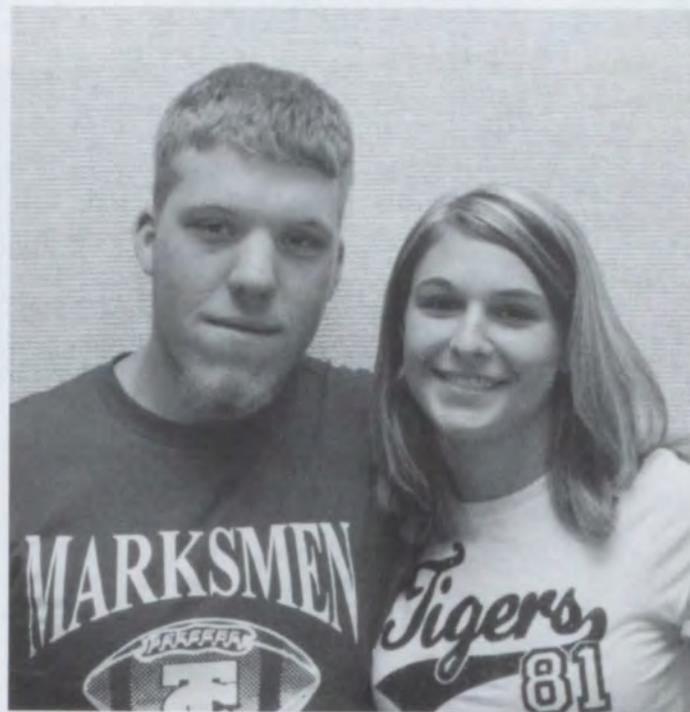

All smiles, David Mayfield and Jake Cravens proudly walk through the procession to take their seats as the graduation ceremony begins.

A Touch of Class

Trying not to lose his patience with the contestants, Alex Trebeck, known better as junior Thomas Carpenter, hopes that this game will get over soon because the players were absolutely terrible at playing the game.

How long did it take you to get ready the morning of picture day? Did you wake up an hour earlier just to get your hair perfect? Who do you remember having the best smile or that cool new shirt? Do you remember who had braces and couldn't wait to get them off or had glasses and wanted contacts? Who do you think has changed the most in your grade since last school year?

Are you a senior excited about spring break and senior day? Or are you the senior that gets overly enthusiastic over your last everything? Are you the junior who gets worked up when you realize that it is your last school picture or your first prom? Or are you the junior that jumps at all opportunities and is excited that you will be a senior next year? Are you a sophomore that feels like you are still a freshman? Or are you the sophomore who gets a class jacket, class ring, and license all in the same year? Are you the freshman who worries about going to high school? Or are you the freshman who has friends from every grade but still comes to school on a class color day all decked out in green? Are you a new staff member? Or are you a staff member teaching something new or pulling double duty?

Gettin' their groove on at the Academic Pep Rally, staff members Mrs. Doogs, Mrs. Hess, Mrs. Alvey, Mrs. Hall, and Mrs. Glenn dance around Mr. Bill Alvey who was dressed as the Hulk.

After being announced the 2005 Regional champs, the girls group together for a quick photo. The girls' Semi-State meet was the following Saturday.

Striding out during the first 800 meters of the Regional meet, Claire Tuggle pushes to pull away from the Jasper runner. Jasper was one of the girls' cross country rivalry teams throughout the season. Tell City ended up winning the Regional meet.

The girls had a lot of community support as they were on the road to state. Dairy Queen left an encouraging message for them the week before the state meet.

Burning leg muscles sting throughout the girls as they push up the long steep hill at the Sectional meet at Jasper. Myra Dauby(right) and Christy Tempel helped the team bring home the Sectional title.

RACIN' TO STATE

Summer blended into fall and cross country was around the bend. The cross country girls put in 10, 20, and even 30 miles a week starting a few weeks after school let out in May. The girls had one major dream in mind: a trip to State. But a long journey of hard work lay ahead of them. The team won 10 of the 15 meets building up to State and placed no lower than third in the other five. With an outstanding 152-7 overall record to brag about, the girls also proudly took home the PAC, Sectional, and Regional titles. For the first time in the history of Tell City girls athletics, the team finished third in their Semi-State and made it to the State finals!!!! "It feels so awesome to be here, i'll never forget today and this experience," said Myra Dauby at the State meet. At the State finals in Terre Haute, freshman Tiffany Davis finished 32nd to lead the Marksmen to a 17th place finish. Davis was the number one runner for the Marksmen throughout their season. Recognized by the State, Tiffany Davis made 1st team, Jessica Fenn made 3rd team, and Christy Tempel and Myra Dauby were named to the Honorable Mention All-State teams. The girls were announced the Fall Scholar Athletic team at TCHS with a accumulative grade point average of 3.6. Senior Christy Tempel said, "I will always remember this team, all the fun we had, and all our accomplishments."

The state qualifying team was made up of only 9 girls. They worked hard together and had fun during their season. Coach Beckort said that "this is the first team to actually get along perfectly." The girls were not only teammates but friends.

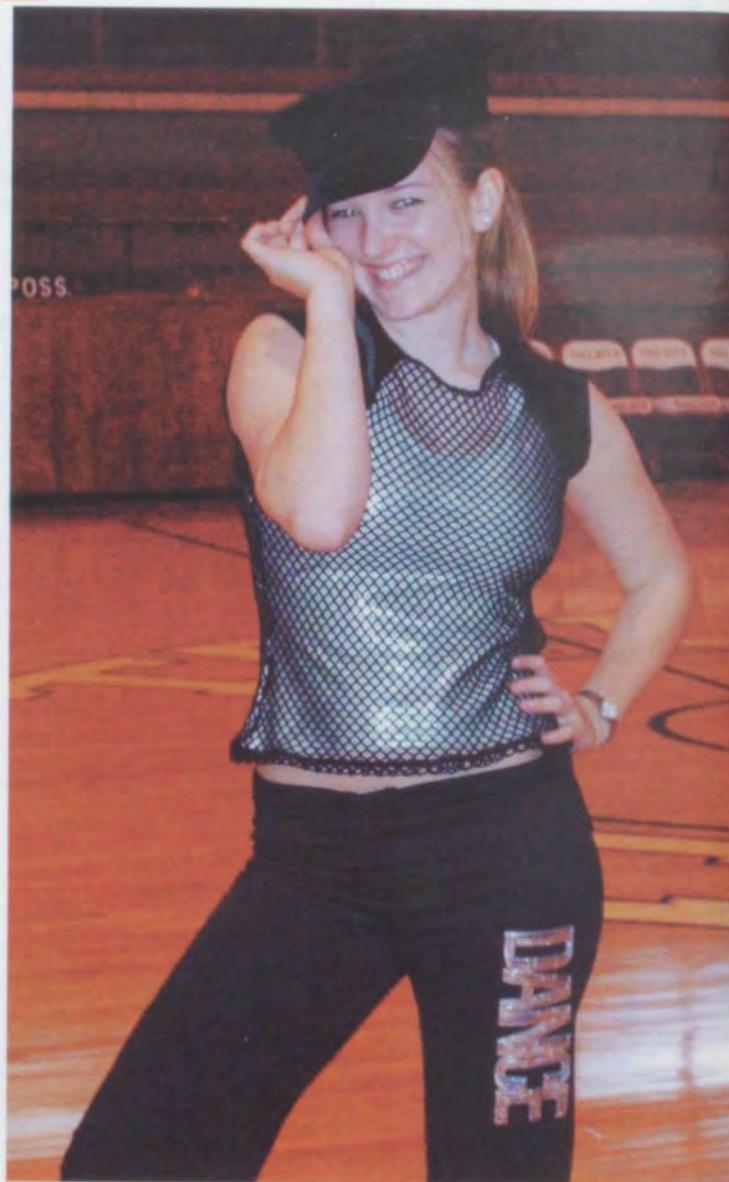

Smiling and proud to be there, the girls pose after the big State meet at Terre Haute. This meet concluded their season and their long journey to reach this goal.

Life In Marksmen Country

Marleen Roettger, a foreign exchange student from Hamburg, Germany, came to stay with sophomore Samantha Smith for the 2005-2006 school year. Marleen met Samantha through the Youth for Understanding (YFU) program.

Marleen lives with her mother in Germany. She has no siblings. She and Samantha, who is an only child as well, have enjoyed having a sister. Samantha described the experience of living with Marleen as, "Having a friend stay the night... only every night."

Marleen said that Germany is very different from the United States. She said the biggest difference in the two is school. In Germany, instead of students moving from class to class, the teachers switch classrooms instead. They also have very different schedules. In Germany, they do not have the same classes every day.

Marleen said that it was not hard for her to adjust to living in America. She said that making friends was easy because everyone was very nice. Her classmates nominated her to represent the Sophomore class in the 2005 Football Homecoming.

Marleen joined the dance team while she was visiting Tell City. She said that she loved to be on the dance team. She said, "I always have a lot of fun at practice and I like the dances. I also like to perform at the pep sessions." Marleen also joined the track team.

Marleen and Samantha have discussed Samantha visiting Marleen in Germany. Samantha said she would not visit during the school year but she may visit over a summer. They both plan to keep in touch and they both know that they will always have a sister.

Marleen gets some help on her project from Jay Ziegelgruber in Mrs. Goodrich's 7th period ceramics class.

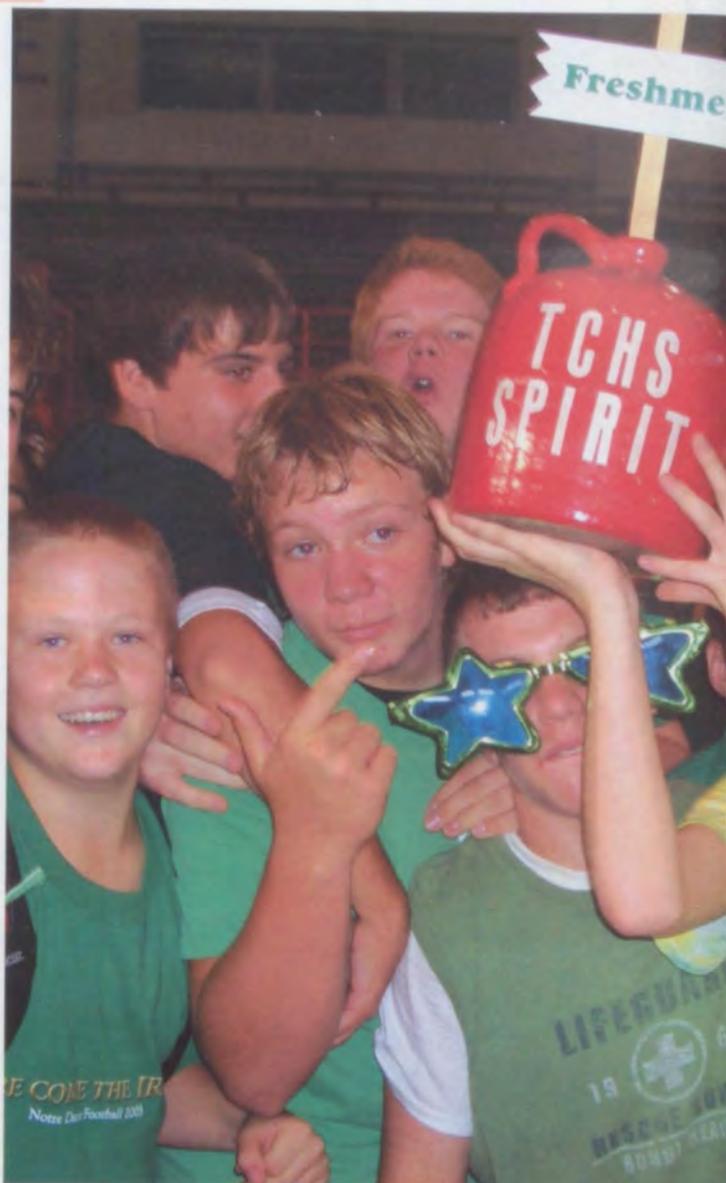

After Go Red, Marleen stops at her locker to grab her books for her next class and to chat with her friends.

Awaiting the boys' varsity basketball team, the cheerleaders hold up a Red Hot Marksmen sign for the boys to run through. The signs are different for every home game and are made by Jeff Kast.

Jill Hammack, Amanda Williams, and Tina Reed clap to "The Cha Cha" at the Winter Dance. "The Cha Cha" is always a popular song to dance to.

The boys' basketball team huddles before a home game. At the first game of the season, the boys basketball team defeated state champs Forest Park.

The band marched to a third place finish at Paoli. They also recieved best music, best percussion, and best auxiliary.

All in green, the freshmen class celebrates after winning the spirit jug. Amity Henderson, with some help from classmates, holds the jug with a big smile.

Freshman Lacey Padgett grabs a book before heading to class. The location of the freshmen lockers required them to climb the stairs numerous times throughout the day.

Waiting to lasso his students, Mr. Rice takes some time out to pose for a photograph on Cowboy Day.

Senior Kelli Chapman draws her pistols and shows off her new recent dental work on Cowboy Day.

Junior Morgan Peter paints junior Sara Hess' face. Both Morgan and Sara are members of Key Club. They participated in a booth at the Magnolia Tree during the Dogwood Festival to earn service hours.

Junior Myra Dauby works hard on completing a fountain for prom. The junior class worked really hard planning prom this year. They met with their class sponsors, Mrs. Kehl and Mr. Lyons, after school on Mondays and Wednesdays for an hour to plan the big event.

Junior Troy Leistner admires the art work displayed at the annual art fair. Students in Mrs. Goodrich's art classes showcased the projects that they have worked on throughout the year.

Juniors Alicia Doogs, Jessica Fenn, and Baylie Gelarden watch as their fellow classmates are inducted into the National Honor Society.

Top Competitors

Do you play any sports? Are you on a team at school or do you play with your friends for fun? Do you prefer the volleyball nets or the basketball nets? Would you rather groove to the music or play it? Which would you rather do: swing a bat, a golf club, or a tennis racket? Do you prefer swimming laps or running them? How would you rather take out your frustration: on a mat, one on one, or on a field with a team of your friends? In your routine, would you rather cheer with poms or dance with them?

Marching band, football, volleyball, cross country, tennis, golf, basketball, swimming, wrestling, track, baseball, softball, cheerleading, and the dance team: all are our Top Competitors.

Changes in Faces and in Perspectives

From the freshmen to the new Varsity/Junior Varsity Coach, new faces appeared on the football field this year. Coach John Elliott said, "Our team motto was start fast, finish strong. We had a great summer of preparation."

That summer preparation paid off as the team got better and better every game, and they went on to get their first win at Pike Central. Junior Jared Foury ran the two-point conversion to increase our lead to seven points. The final score was 21-14.

Coach Elliott stated, "We had a great senior leadership on and off the field." The seniors on the team were Vincent Voyles, Judd Brown, Brandon Harrison, Matt Link, Jordan Zuckschwerdt, and Brandon Hosler. Senior Jordan Zuckschwerdt said, "The most memorable part of the year was the Sectional game against South Spencer."

From the freshman perspective, Andy Carter stated, "The season was really fun; I just wish we could have had more wins."

The football team's parents formed a committee to show their support for the team throughout the season. Junior Brad Richter's mother, Jenny Richter, said, "We hosted Meet the Team Night, Staff and Faculty Night, and a Father and Son Breakfast."

Tyler Henning makes a quick decision to run the ball past North Posey defenders during a varsity game.

Teamwork was not what the volleyball team used their first three games of the season as they fell to an 0-3 start. Luckily, on August 25th against Gibson Southern, the girls had their first victory.

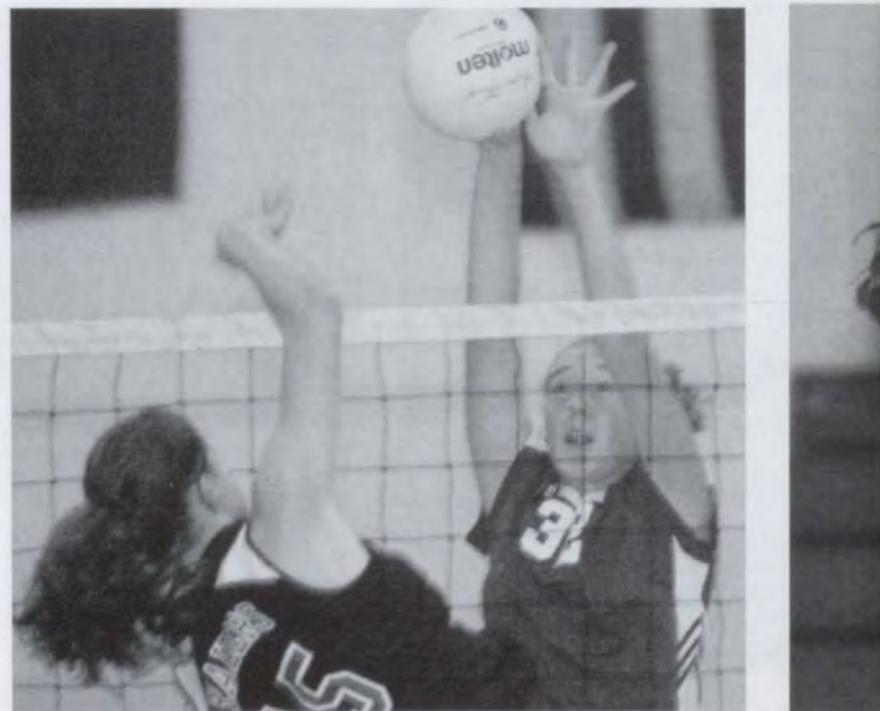

The team finished second in the Evansville Harrison tourney with a record of 2-1.

"The team was a lot closer than I thought we would be. At the annual volleyball sleepover, which was held at my house, it was mainly the varsity that showed up, which actually was a kind of icebreaker. From then on, we grew closer each day," said senior player Samantha Briggeman. As the team began to grow closer together, they started playing better as a team. "My favorite part about playing volleyball this year was how well I got to know my teammates. There were a lot of great girls on the team this year, and we had a great time together," said senior Wendy Carter.

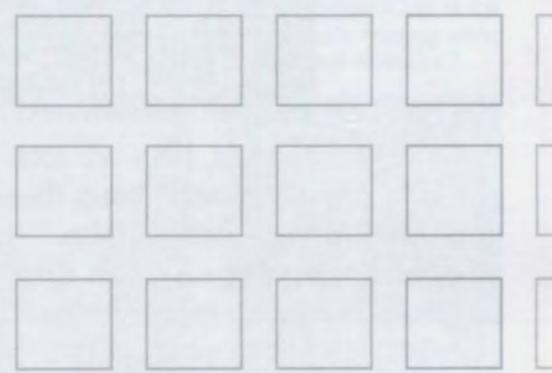

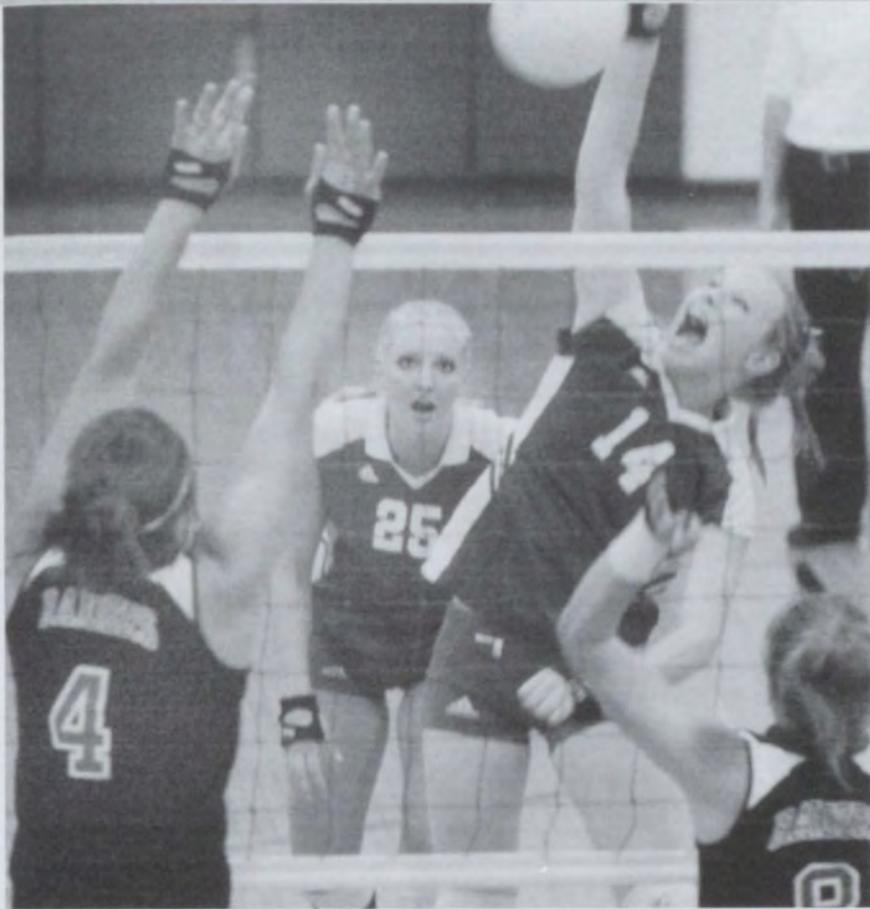

Through the month of September they began to run into a slump but worked their way out of it with a 3-1 record at the North Harrison tourney. As the season came to an end with a sectional lost to Southridge, it was time for the seniors to say goodbye and always remember how hard they worked throughout the season.

Trying to block a kill is sophomore middle blocker, Dana Sibrel. She had 3 blocks against the Lady Raiders.

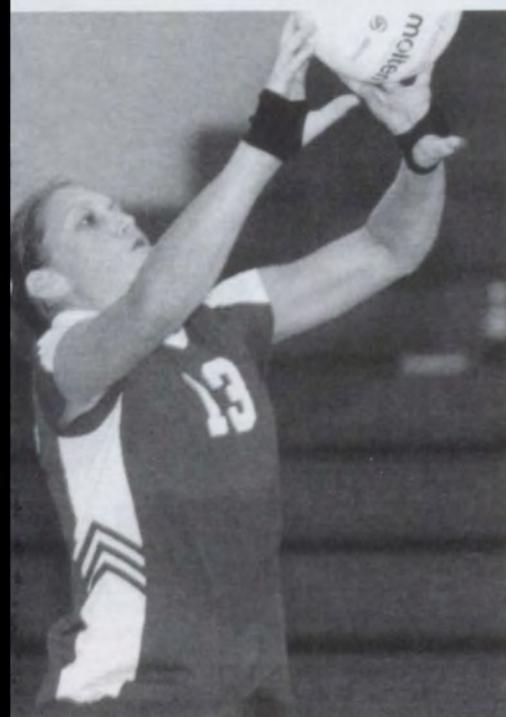

Backing up her teammate, Emily Harpenau watched Kara McClintic "kill" the ball against the Southridge Raiders.

"Pushing" the ball over the net, is junior hitter Emily Harpenau.

Watching the ball all the way in is junior Baylie Gelarden. She "bumped it up" to the setter from her libero position.

After receiving a pass from the back row, junior Alicia Doogs sets the ball to one of her three hitters.

RACING -N- PACING

Extreme heat, hill workouts, and long practices didn't keep these dedicated runners home in the air-conditioning this summer. The boys' cross country team set their standards high this year.

Coach Chris Hollinden said that one of the biggest challenges that they faced this year was, "Staying motivated enough to practice through the heat of the summer. When it is 95 degrees and humid, few people want to be outside working out. This sport really shows whose got guts." The team made it through the difficult summer months and had a very successful season.

Placing 3rd in sectional, the boys qualified for Regionals. The top five teams in the Regional meet at Bedford North Lawrence qualified for the Semi-State meet held at the same place the following week. The boys placed 5th to move on.

The boys had an outstanding season. They worked hard and it paid off. Their overall record was an outstanding 140-65.

The girls cross country team also had an outstanding season. For more information about their season go to page 42-43.

Working together, freshman Alex Fenn and sophomore Spencer Sandage lead the pack at the Paoli Invitational.

Huddling together, the boys varsity team says a few words to get the team pumped up and motivated before a big race.

Front Row: Neal Goffinet, Kyle Jarboe, Dalton Sweeny, Spencer Sandage, Justin Kleemann, Alex Fenn, A.J. Flynn

Freshman Tiffany Davis led the Marksmen as the number one runner throughout the season. Davis finished 32nd at the State finals, missing being an All State finalist by 7.

Pushing their hardest, sophomore Marianne Krueger and senior Christy Tempel work together to pass opposing runners at the Jasper Sectional meet.

GO FORE IT!

Junior Kara Gunn takes her first shot off of the first tee box during the PAC at Sultan's Run. She was the first person to tee off.

The girls' golf season started off slowly, but gradually progressed at a faster pace. The new freshmen really pulled it together at the end of the season. They worked hard and brought their scores down, which improved the marksmen scoring. The team lost a player midway through the season but they kept their heads up and started to win some matches.

The funny practices and sleepy bus rides are what the girls liked most this season. At the girls' last practice together a funny thing happened: Kristin Fischer and Kara Gunn were giving Jill Hammack a ride to green five on the back of the golf cart. Jill was going to jump off, but her foot got stuck, and she tumbled onto the ground. Everyone laughed; some laughed so hard that they cried. There are many memories, but that is the one that stands out.

The team placed third in the PAC. They usually place second, but had some difficulty keeping their scores low. Kara Gunn went home with a third place medal and Kristin Fischer with a seventh place. Their average scoring this year was all together lower than the previous year, which made coach Jim Meek proud. At the Fall Sports banquet the girls were given awards for their accomplishments. Amber Thomas got Most Improved, Kara Gunn Lowest Match, Jill Hammack Best Putter, and Kristin Fischer Miss Consistency.

Senior Kristin Fischer finishes her practice swing before she proceeds with her final shot. She pared that hole helping her earn the title of lowest average.

MAKIN' A RAQUET

This year's boys tennis team had a fun, but also challenging season. The team started their practices a couple of weeks before school started to prepare for their season opener against Loogootee High School.

The players on the team were very young. This year they only had one returning varsity Senior on the team Luke Alvey. He played varsity doubles for the team throughout the season.

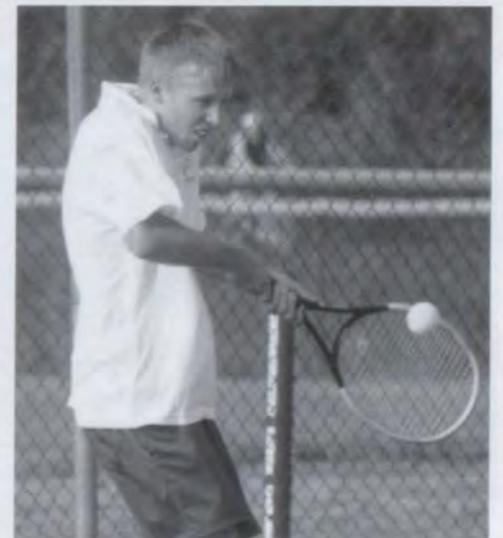

Coach Kreilein saw many improvements in the team. He said, "All the players competed on a much higher level this year than the year before." The boys team faced challenges during the season, but they never gave up on any obstacles that were thrown at them. They just kept right on playing. Junior Logan Jefford stated, "I just like to get out on the courts and play tennis."

One goal that the team always sets for the season is to win Sectional and the PAC. They did not reach their goals but despite some of the season's setbacks they went into the Sectional with much enthusiasm to play. The boys tennis team regular season record was 5-5.

Marskmen in the House

The Marskmen had their first winning season since 2001. They improved their winning total by nine games. They had an overall record of 14-9. The varsity team consisted of three seniors and ten juniors. One new addition to the team was Perry Central transfer Wade Franchville. Wade said, "The biggest transition for me was getting used to Tell City's playing system." The Marskmen had several good wins and beat defending state champs, Forest Park on December 3. Coach Hayes said, "My most memorable moment was beating Forest Park on the night that they unveiled their state championship banner."

After beating Forest Park, many people realized that the Tell City basketball team wasn't going to be like the previous years. At every home game the Bryan Taylor Sports Arena was jam-packed with Marskmen pride. The team represented our school and community well by being ranked third in Class 2A. The team beat Southridge to advance on to the semi-finals of Sectional. The Marskmen lost the semi-final game to Forest Park but played with a lot of heart. The Marskmen will lose seniors Will Pappano, Matt Kieser, and Wade Franchville.

The Seniors were number 30 Matt Kieser, number 24 Will Pappano, and number 14 Wade Franchville.

Junior Jon Melberg dribbles his way down the court past a defender. Jon was a 5'9" guard for the Marskmen.

Dribble, Shoot, Score

With only one senior and two juniors, the girls had a successful season. The girls' record for the regular season was 10-10. By the end of the season their record was 10-11.

Coach John Lyons said his favorite part of the season was "being able to work with the girls and seeing them work together as a group. The girls played well with all the challenges that they faced throughout the season;"

Junior Emily Harpenau said, "Over the year our teamwork had improved. It was also good to know that four other girls had your back." Emily's favorite part of this year was coming back from 14-0 and beating Heritage Hills. The girls' basketball team won the award for the highest grade point average for a sport. The Lady Marksmen also won the first round of Sectional against the South Spencer Rebels, but they lost the second round to Perry Central. Overall, the Lady Marksmen had a terrific season, as you can see by the record. They pulled it off with an all-out effort.

Being the only senior on the girls' basketball team, Krystal Lawalin had a great last year. When asked what it was like being the only senior on the team, she said, "At times I felt stressed out because of all the pressure put on me for being the oldest girl on the team." Her most memorable part was waiting at Coach Lyons' house and listening to the radio to hear the pairing for the Sectional.

Sophomore Marianne Krueger dribbles the basketball down the court, past one of the opponents to score for the Marksmen.

MAKIN' WAVES

The boys and girls swim teams worked many tough practices to be able to compete with the other teams during their season. Both swim teams were much smaller this year than in years before. Coach Page stated that "I saw improvements in the swimmers attitudes. We were few in numbers, but we never let that bother us. We swam very well."

The boys team had a 2nd place finish in the PAC Junior Reece Hendershot met his goal by becoming the 100 yard backstroke champion during the PAC by shaving 7 seconds off of his time. The boys finished off their season with an 8th place finish in Sectional competition.

The girls team had a 3rd place finish in the PAC The girls only diver on the team Tina Reed stated "My most memorable moment this season was placing 7th out of 23 divers in Sectionals. When I didn't expect to make it in the top 10." Junior Jordan Dauby mentioned how "every girl improved her time with all the time, effort and dedication we pour into swimming." The girls finished off their season with an 11th place finish in their Sectional, which took place in Jasper.

Accomplishing Goals

A winning season and a Conference title were two goals that the wrestling team worked towards throughout the year. This seemed like a hard task with nine freshmen and two new coaches. The team practiced every day and traveled to dual meets and tournaments to prepare for Conference. The team beat every team in their Conference and won two big dual meets against the Jasper Wildcats and the Memorial Tigers. The team won the Madison

5-way, placed third at the Harrison 10-way and placed fifth out of twenty-seven teams at the Holiday Classic.

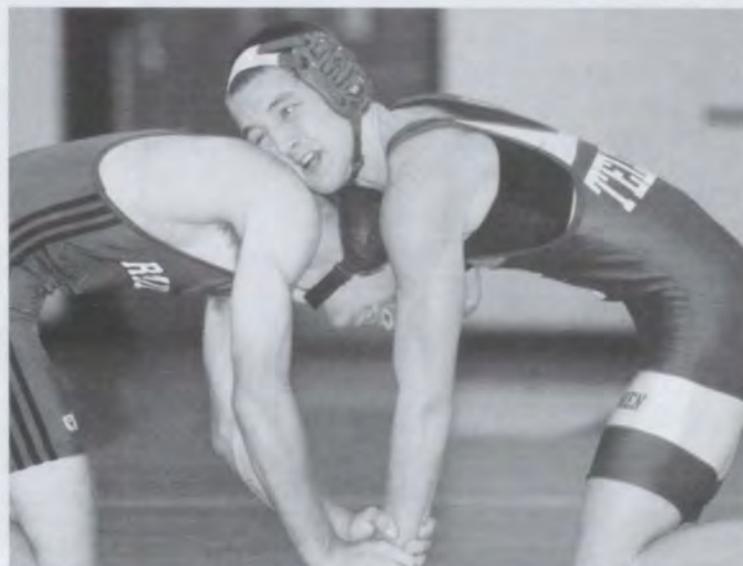

The team accomplished one of their goals with a 23-6 record. The team fell short of their other goal by placing second at the PAC. Individual winners at Conference were Brandon Harrison, Chase Litherland, Logan Jefford, and Kesiuke Kawaguchi. The team placed fourth at Sectional and advanced nine wrestlers to the regionals. The nine wrestlers were Brandon Harrison, Chase Litherland, Keisuke Kawaguchi, Jack Tuggle, Logan Jefford, Keith Patrick, Joey Woznicki, Justin Kleemann, and Andy Kast. Chase Litherland, Logan Jefford, and Brandon Harrison were the only wrestlers to advance on to semi-state. The three wrestlers lost close matches at semi-state and didn't advance on to state. Brandon and Chase made the top ten list for career wins. Brandon was first with a high school record of 155-17 and Chase was second with a high school record of 143-30.

Fighting for the first takedown is junior Cody McDaniel. Cody wrestled in the 215-lb class.

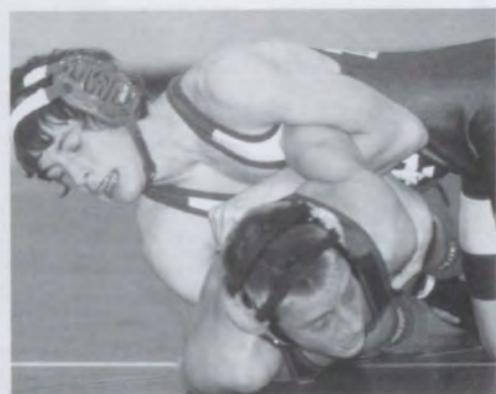

Trying to take down his Southridge opponent is junior Jack Tuggle. Jack placed 3rd at the PAC.

Using his height to his advantage is junior Logan Jefford. Logan wrestled in the 189-lb class for the Marksmen and advanced to semi-state.

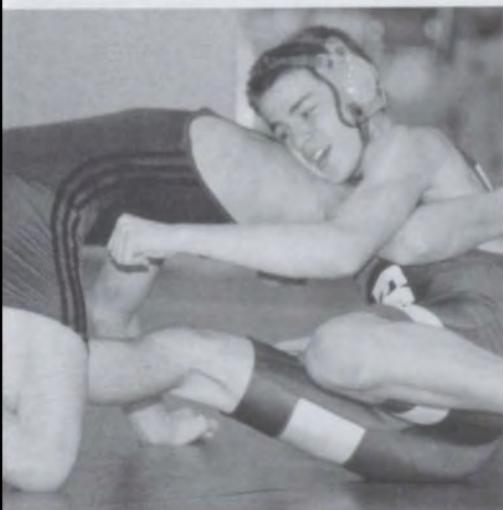

TEAM

Trying to get a near fall on his opponent is sophomore Joey Woznicki. Joey pinned his opponent to win the match.

Samson Benjamin tries for the takedown as his opponent blocks his shot. Samson won several matches for the Marksmen.

Freshman Justin Kleemann tries to stay in control of his opponent. The freshmen helped the Marksmen accomplish many of their goals this season.

TEE TIME

The 2006 boys' golf season was an adventure. The challenges included maturing in their attitudes to understand that they would be good enough to contend with any team in the area and finding new talent to return next year. Many of the guys gained match experience this year and should be better prepared for next year.

The boys beat Jasper in a head-to-head match. This was the team's breakout match. They shot 17 shots better than their previous best. At the Boonville Invitational at Quail Crossing, they beat our best nine-hole score for the year, Shane Flannagan broke 40 on the front side with a 39 for our first sub-40 round, and in Vic Schutzius's first match for Tell City he shot a 92 (45-47), breaking forty on both sides in his rookie outing. A major highlight in the PAC was Ian Reed's front nine of 39 (par 36) which set him up to finish as an All-Conference player for the tournament. Eric Frizzell also performed well. He missed All-Conference honors by only one stroke. The two boys did an outstanding job in the PAC.

When Coach Jim Meek was asked what he had to say about the golf season, he said, "I am pleased that 17 players stuck with the program. My hope is that they learned not just golfing skills but that applying those skills is a very personal decision that each of them has to make. I believe and hope they were all encouraged by their ability to manage themselves in personal pressure situations." The team had an overall record of 13 wins and 28 losses, and they placed sixth as a team in the PAC. Coach Meek also said, "All the boys made improvements in one area or the other, and as a skill our match putting improved dramatically."

Senior Eric Frizzell prepares to take his first swing of the match. The Marksmen were up against Southridge.

Sophomores Ian Reed, Shane Flannagan, freshman Corey Young, and sophomore Sean Risse listen attentively to the instructions of Coach Meek. He usually gives a description of the playing rules before every match.

The girls' tennis team stayed and practiced during spring break to get a jump start on their first match of the season that took place that following week. The team had new players in the varsity line up after losing both # 1 and # 3 singles players.

Tina Reed stated that it was "hard to stay consistent through the year and not go through slumps."

This year it was difficult to place the players in the right positions to help pull off wins for the team. But the team worked through the hard times and played very well.

Mr. Kreilein stated that his favorite aspect of tennis is that "no matter how good or bad of an athlete you are, the only way to become successful in tennis is to practice."

Junior Morgan Peter hits her powerful backhand to her Castle opponent.

RUN AT THE GUN

The boys' and girls' track teams had another successful season this year. The boys' team ended with a regular season record of 30-12. The girls ended with a record of 15-14.

The track teams are coached by Coach Chris Hollinden, with the assistance of Coach Katie Chinn, Coach Mike Hagan, Coach Zac Hartz, and Coach Brian Beckort.

More people were signed up for track this year than in previous years. Coach Hollinden said that his most memorable moment of the season was "showing up for the first practice and seeing how many people were going to participate." All of the newcomers to the track team gave the team a huge challenge. Coach Hollinden said, "Inexperience was the hardest battle to fight throughout the year. We had plenty of people who didn't know the order of events, but through practice we got it."

Coach Hollinden's favorite part of coaching track is seeing the athletes improve from meet to meet. The teams showed a great deal of improvement this year. The team broke the school record in the 4x800 relay and freshman Tiffany Davis broke a school record in the 3200-meter race during the PAC. Junior Jessica Fenn commented, "Many of our times have improved from last year, and our team size has practically doubled." Jacob Bower also said that he saw improvement in the track team. He said, "I think that our team improved in all aspects this year. Our sprinters were quicker, our throwers were stronger, our jumpers jumped further, and our distance runners were in better shape."

According to Coach Hollinden, the team's main goal was to be able to contend for the PAC title. The girls' team finished 4th in the PAC, which is the highest that they have scored in the PAC since they joined. The team accomplished their goal, and hopefully the experience gained this year will help them come back even stronger next season.

Sophomore Dana Sibrel throws shot-put during a home track meet. Dana's most memorable moment of this year when she had her best throw of the season. She threw the 8 pound shot-put 32 feet and 4 inches. She lost by just half an inch. Dana always gives a little grunt while throwing the shot-put. She said, "A little grunt can help the shot go a long way."

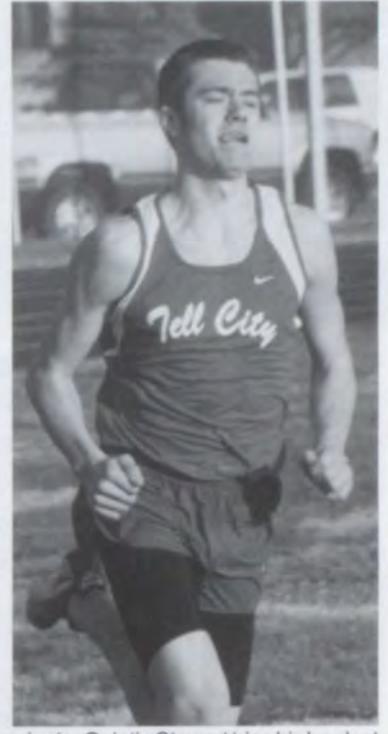

Sophomores Spencer Sandage and Dalton Sweeney run hard against their Perry Central opponents at a home track meet.

Junior Myra Dauby leaps high to get over the hurdles during the Tell City vs. Perry Central track meet at Legion Field. Myra has been competing in track for 3 years. Myra said, "My two most memorable moments from my years in track were winning the first meet in eleven years and breaking the PAC record for the 4x8 race."

Take Me Out to the Ball Game

This year's baseball team was a young team. One challenge they faced was an inexperienced pitching staff. Some improvements that the team achieved included mental growth and maturity. The team graduated seven seniors last year. The team this year was mainly a sophomore team. They had a lot of adjusting to do moving to a varsity schedule. The team had a lack of confidence and experience, but throughout the year they overcame that. Coach DeSpain's most memorable moment this year was "playing a solid game in a 3-2 loss to Floyd Central." They were a 4A school and a very good team, especially on defense. Coach DeSpain said that his favorite aspect of the game of baseball is learning the game and taking advantage of what the opponent gives you. The teams were made up of four seniors, five juniors, seven sophomores, and thirteen freshman. Senior Will Pappano has signed to play college baseball at Hanover College. The team has improved since the beginning of the year and continues to work hard.

GOING TO EXTREMES

The girls' softball season started earlier this year. They conditioned two times a week in January to plan for the spring season. They really wanted to get a jump on the year. A lot of the girls had good expectations about the year, even though they only had three returning seniors.

The team came out strong. The juniors really stepped it up and did their part. The girls had two big wins against two ranked teams. The team beat Forest Park for the first time in Tell City's softball history. This year the team really improved their attitudes and their hitting, which showed in their wins.

When asked what her most memorable moment was this year, senior Cassie Cain responded by saying, "It was when we played Corydon and Rivaye belly-flopped back into first base." The girls all agreed that this year was a good one. They all got along, laughed, and concentrated more on the game. Coach Richardson said that "the game" is her favorite aspect of softball. She said, "I love the game, teaching the skills, and seeing the players execute them when needed on their own makes it all worthwhile."

Junior Alicia Doogs makes a big stride as she's about to release the pitch.

Senior Rivaye Sitzman waits attentively in left field for the batter to swing. She was ready for anything that came her way.

Junior Emily Harpenau watches for the right pitch. She was planning on smashing the ball out to center field.

Sophomore Brittany Sheldon throws a ball back and forth with one of her teammates while the varsity played their game. She was warming up for the junior varsity game.

Leading the Crowd

This year's cheerleading squad was one of the most memorable squads in recent years, mainly because it was Coach Terri Gruelich's last year coaching. She served as cheerleading coach for 33 years. The TCHS cheerleaders started practicing during summer. Much of their conditioning occurred during these summer practices, and it included lots of running, push-ups, crunches and much more to get them ready for their state competition in New Castle on November 5, 2005. Unfortunately, they did not get first place like they had hoped for. Because of a point deduction, they did not place first.

When asked what she liked best about this year's cheer squad, Terri Gruelich said, "I really liked how the team pulled together throughout the year." Since this was her last year serving as cheerleading coach, she could not pick one memorable moment. Everything that she did was her last time doing it. The cheerleaders this year really enjoyed performing at games and competitions. They loved supporting all of the sports. The cheerleaders tried to do as much as possible to raise school spirit by decorating the halls. The senior cheerleaders all said that they were really going to miss cheering and they would do it all over again.

Sophomore Whitney Heck joins in on a chant to try to get the crowd pumped up during at basketball game. The cheerleaders led a lot of chants this year for the fans.

Junior cheerleader Alicia Doogs gets the crowd up on their feet at the basketball sectional game in Southridge.

Dancing With the Stars

The Crimson Arrows are the dancing stars of the school. This was only the second year for the team. Coach Mrs. Aubrey said that they placed higher in competitions this year and the team worked better together. The Crimson Arrows placed high at both competitions this year, earning them trophies for the first time.

The Crimson Arrows went to two competitions this year, the Lincoln Invitational in Vincennes and the Greenfield Invitational. At the competition in Vincennes they placed first in their pom division and second in their hip hop division. At the competition in Greenfield they placed third in their pom division and third in their hip hop division. They were really happy with their scores at Greenfield because several things had gone wrong that day. They had an injured dancer at Greenfield because junior Caitie Coyle wrecked her car on her way to the bus the morning of the competition and sprained her wrist. Also that day, their music skipped during their hip hop routine, but they kept on dancing.

Senior Brittany Lawalin said, "One of the best things about this year's team was how well everyone worked as a team." The team went through a lot of ups and downs, but they worked together and managed to get through the rough times to become our school's dancing stars.

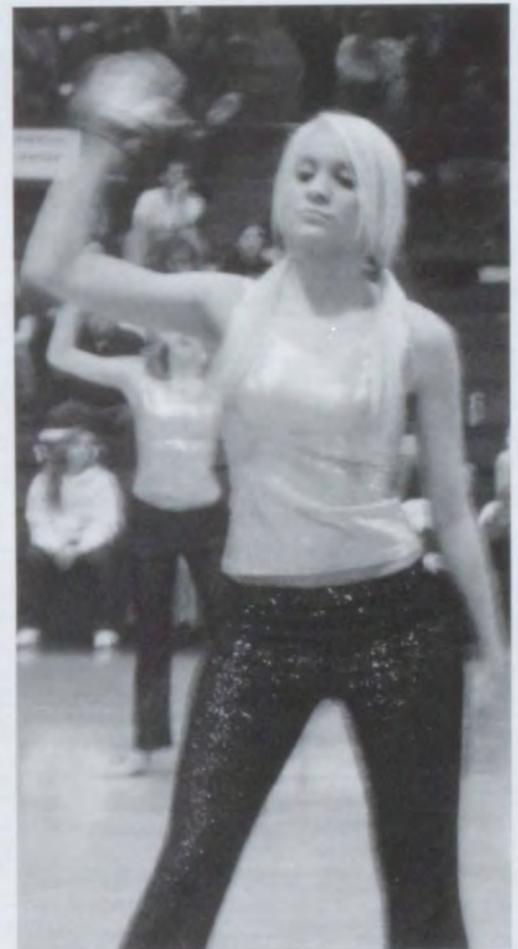

Robyn Applegate, Brittany Lawalin, and Brittany Henderson sell their performance to the crowd as they are practicing before they take the floor at competition.

The Motions of Music and Dance

Awaiting awards at the district competition are seniors Lesley Perryman, J.R. Fischer, and Amanda Alvey. They wait with anticipation to see if they advanced to regionals in Terre Haute.

As the Marching Marksmen stepped onto the field, you could feel the crowd's enthusiasm as they spelled out "Tell City." The Tell City Marching Marksmen finished 6th place, only missing a trip to the Hoosier Dome by an eighth of a point. Senior Lesley Perryman said, "It was a big disappointment knowing that you put in all that hard work and then had your dreams shattered. But you just have to pull through."

The band won several awards including Best Auxiliary, Best Music, Best Drum Major, and Best Percussion throughout the marching season. The band also won the Battle of the Bands award from WFIE in the first round.

The Marksmen were asked to perform in the Disney parade over spring break. Band Directors Barry Reasoner and Brett Mulzer said, "It was a great honor to march in a Disney Parade."

The band doesn't only perform in the fall. They also compete in the spring at various concert band contests. They participated in a competition at Columbus High School and received a gold rating.

The concert band held a winter concert and a spring concert in the TCHS auditorium. Both concerts were well-received by the audiences. At the winter concert the band played various Christmas selections. At the spring concert they played selections from Disney's Chronicles of Narnia and The Lion King.

The TCHS band program had a very successful year. Besides falling short of a trip to state, they had an outstanding year and they saw much improvement in the band. They hope to come back even stronger next year.

Think Creatively

Senior Loran Harding listens to a guest speaker in Mr. Lacy's government class. The speaker was discussing the new form of voting.

What classes are you taking? Are you passing or failing? Are you taking college credit classes? How many credits will you be graduating with? Which diploma are you graduating with? Are you going to have enough or too many credits?

How did you do on the big tests this year like the ISTEP and the SAT? Did you pass that midterm and final in your toughest class?

Out of all of your classes, which was your favorite? Did you form any bonds with any of the teachers? Did you vote for any of the teachers for the Raise the Lid Award?

Were you ever nominated for Student of the Month? Did you receive any awards at the Academic Pep Rally? Have you ever received the Stretch Award? Were any of your wonderful works of art in the Art Fair this year? How many times did you go to the library this year? Do you like our new computers we received for the library and computer labs?

The big question is were you able to handle your class load this year? Could you keep up with homework with a job, sports, clubs, service hours, and still be able to spend time with your friends and family?

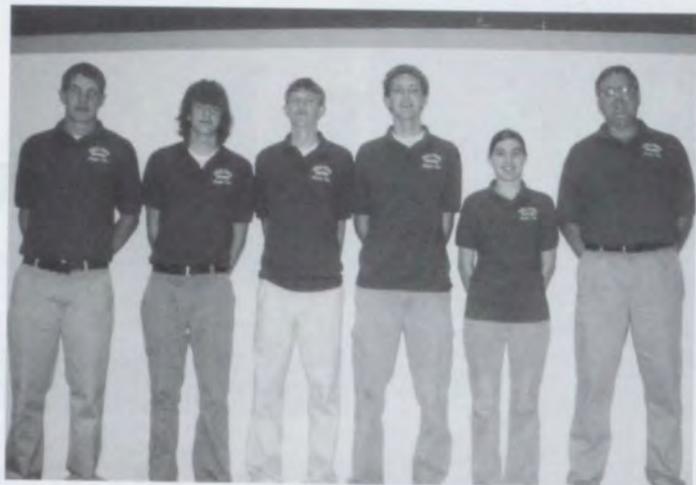

The academic teams, chorus, science, english, history, health, P.E., art, family and consumer sciences, foreign language, business, vocational, and math all make us Think Creatively.

Mr. Lacy hands back a test in his 3rd period Sociology class.

GRAPHIC ARTS & HEALTH/PE

Sophomore Grace Smitson works on her assignment during health class. Students are required to take a semester of Health.

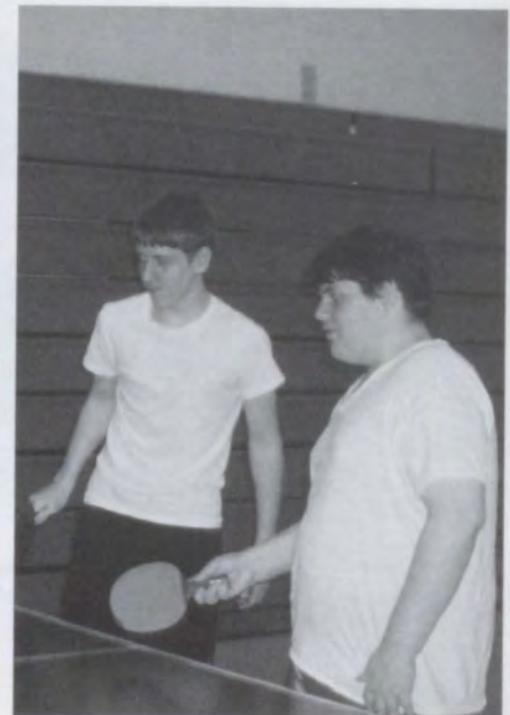

Tory Coyle waits patiently to hit the birdie during a game of badminton. The students got to pick what game they wanted to play during class. They chose from badminton and ping-pong.

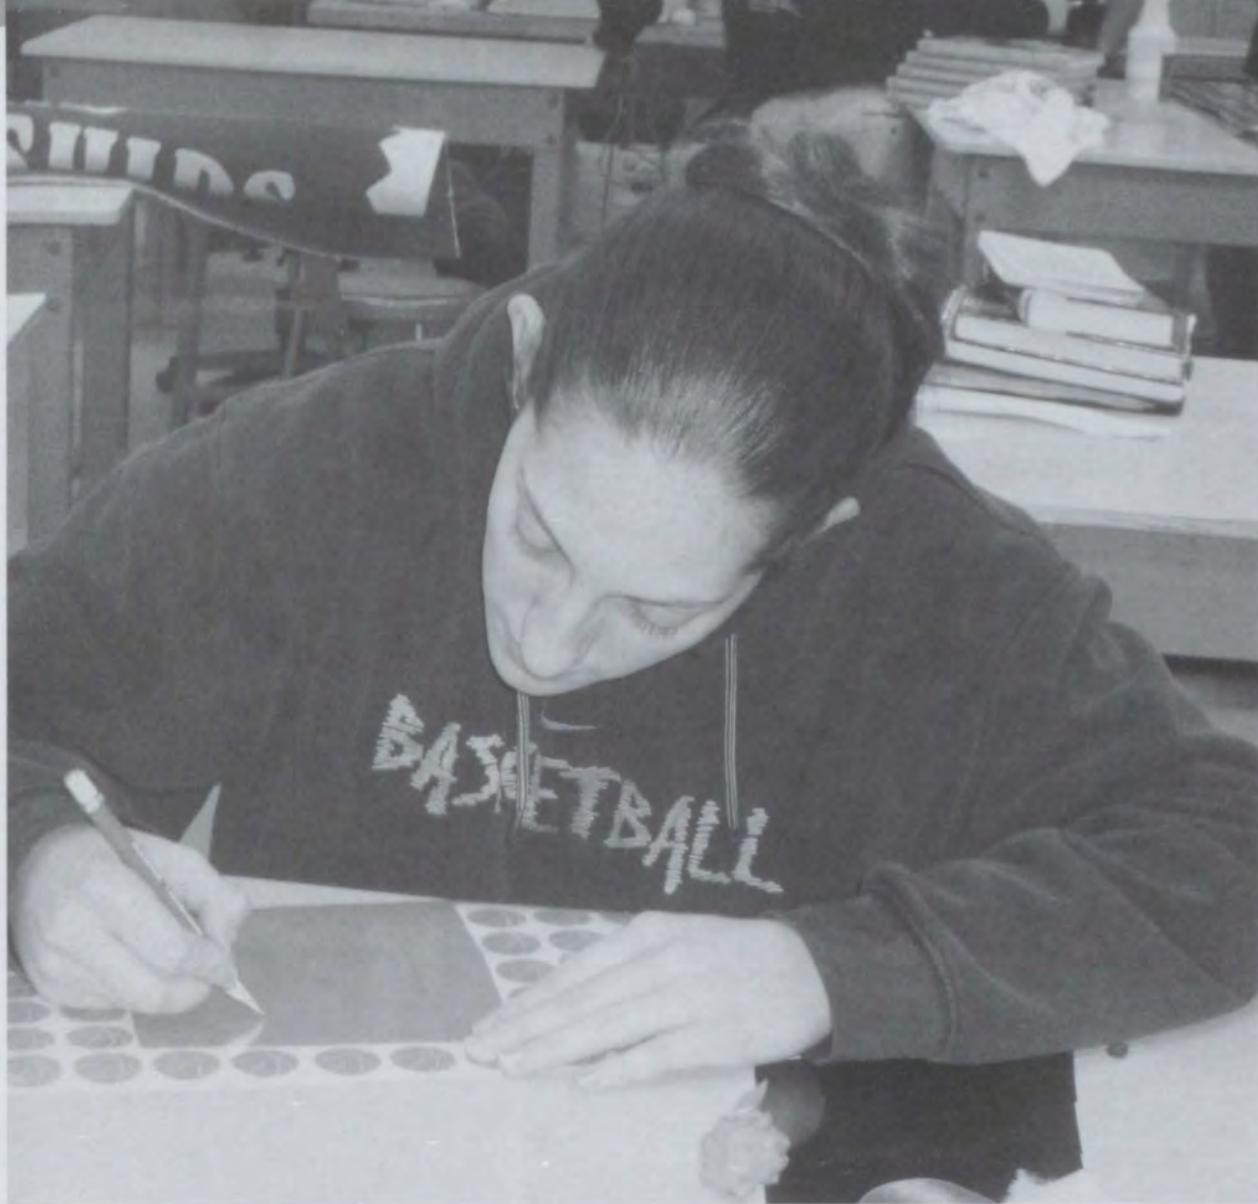

Listening attentively to Mr. Page is Stephen Patrick. Health class was third period.

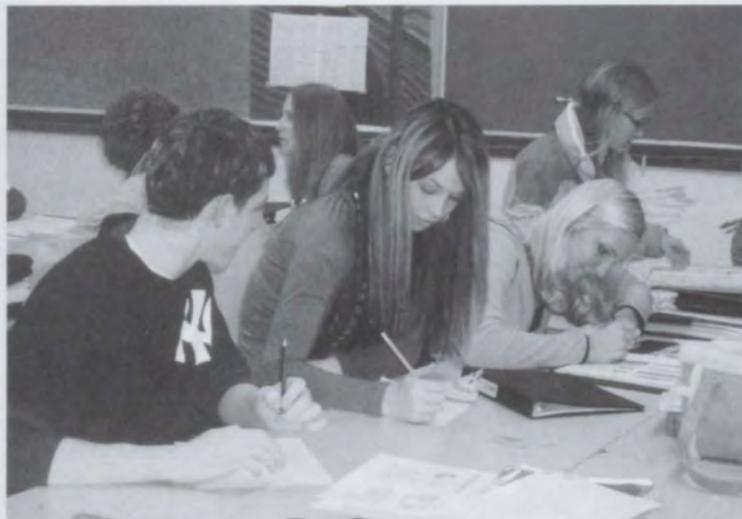

Waiting to hit the ping pong ball is Brandon Ramsey. Ethan Shenaut watches anxiously to see who will get the winning point.

Senior Krystal Lawalin concentrates on a project in Mr. DeSpain's third period Graphic Arts class.

Kyle Clemens, Ashton Zuelly, and Emily Harpenau, all students of Mrs. Goodrich's third period Art Class, work on one of the several projects that they had throughout the school year.

Senior Jake Cravens works on a project in his ceramics class. He said, "The best thing about the ceramics class is that the class never gets boring. It is fun everyday."

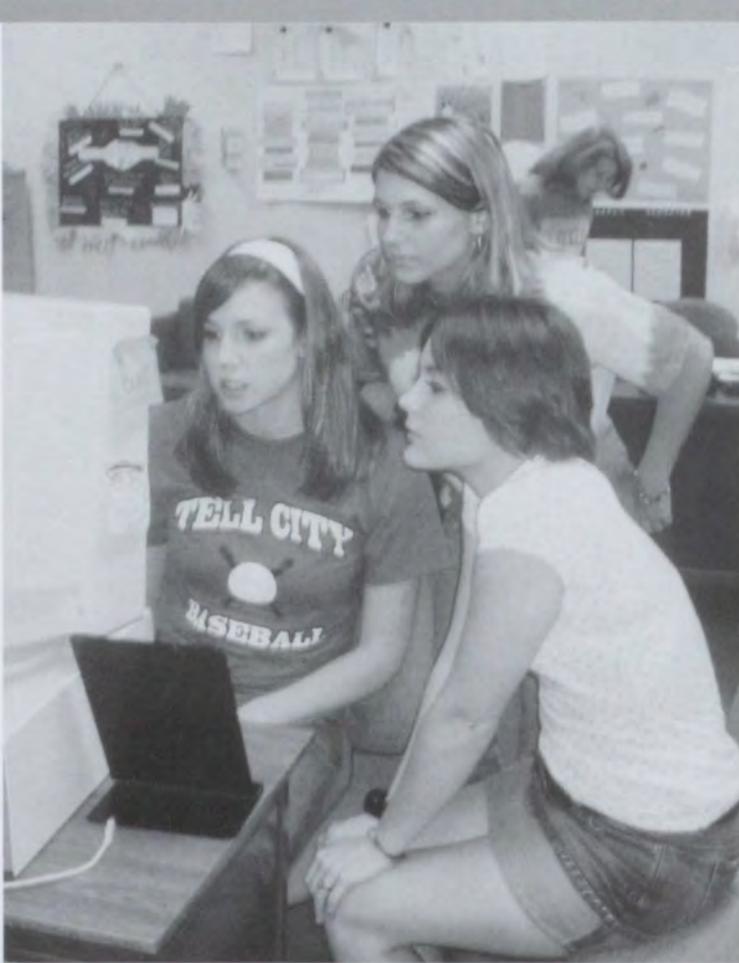

Senior Wes Zellers uses his cutting skills as he cuts out a project for Mr. DeSpain. Wes really enjoys his drafting class. His favorite thing about the class is that "Mr. DeSpain is really lenient."

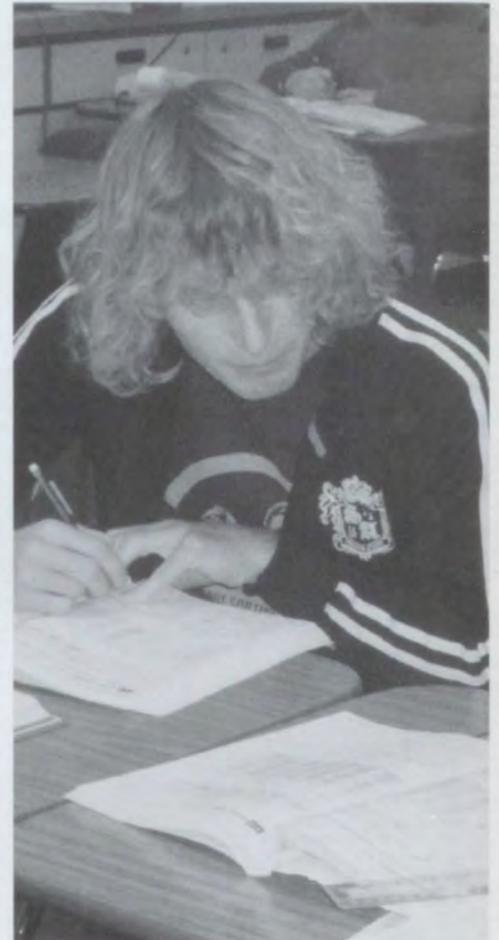

Senior Rivaye Sitzman said, "I love how Mrs. G is so easy going and lets us change around or substitute some of our projects to suit our interest."

BUSINESS & FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Seniors Ashley Jefford, Whitney DuPont, and Lauren Braunecker gather around the computer in their Intensive Office Lab class.

Senior J.R. Fischer works on his homework during his third period Accounting class. J.R. said that he really likes accounting because it teaches him a lot of things that he will use in the future.

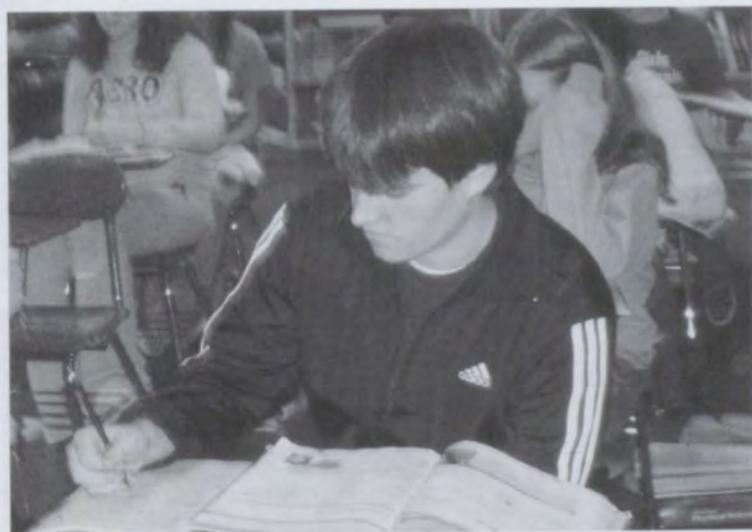

Seniors Amanda Albin and Katie Houghland practice their skills at answering the phone. They were in IOL and learned about working at a business.

Senior Cody Toothman and Don Steen separate pizza boxes and cookie dough. The French and Spanish clubs both participated in the fundraiser.

Senior Christy Tempel works on the computer in her third period ICE class. The ICE class allowed students to go to their jobs during the day. Sometimes they even get to go home during the school day just as long as they are working ten hours a week.

During the swim competition against the French and Spanish Clubs, Mrs. Sanders and swimmers discuss their strategy to beat the Spanish team. The Spanish Club ended up winning the competition.

Brandon Hosler, Cory Anson, and Morgan Peter take a quick break from work. They were working on the roof of the building trades house, which is on 20th Street.

Senior Brandon Harrison, a veteran in the auto mechanics class, works hard under the hood.

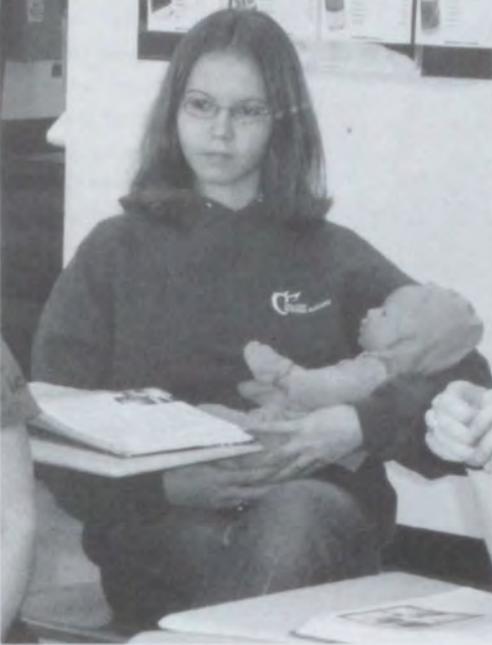

Working together, Zach Zuely and Dane Wheatley hold the leg of a table steady while Brandon Hendershot attaches it. Aaron Litherland decided to supervise the activity and help when he was needed.

Vocational and Consumer Sciences

Junior Whitney Fuchs cradles a baby doll, while listening to Mrs. Glenn, to gain parenting skills in Child Development class.

Sophomore, Alisha Patton wears the empathy belly to show what it is like to be pregnant. The belly weighs around 25 to 30 pounds.

Following the textbook, Mrs. Glenn teaches her third period class about real life responsibilities.

Take Me Clubbin'

Did you join any clubs this year? Are you in a large club like SADD or Pep Club? Are you in a small club like BPA or Hackey-Sack? Are you a senior or junior completely outnumbered by sophomores and freshmen, or is it the other way around?

Were you actively involved with your club, or did you just join so it looks good on a college application? What kind of activities did you participate in? Did you help any clubs that you didn't join, like volunteer even though you aren't a member or wear a red ribbon and dress up for Red Ribbon Week?

HOSA, Renaissance, SADD, Student Council, Hackey-Sack, Outdoorsman, Drama, Movie, BPA, National Honor Society, CSA, Student Steering Committee, Pep, Key, VIS-TA, Advocates, French, and Spanish will all Take Me Clubbin'.

True Colors

The yearbook class consisted of two veterans, nine new members, and two new teachers. The class had to learn how to adjust to each other and to a new program called InDesign. The InDesign program was new for everyone in the class, but the class adjusted perfectly to it. The class was also small in numbers, but that didn't stop them from finishing the yearbook. The members of the class worked on several pages at a time to get the yearbook completed on time. The class overcame several obstacles such as inexperience and a new program in order to produce this yearbook. The class became a family by the end of the year.

The 2006 Sagittarius True Colors, was produced under the new advisements of Ms. Wooldridge and Mrs. Aubrey. The book was published by Herff-Jones Publishing Company, 2800 Selma Highway, Montgomery Alabama 36108. Mark Hisle served as the sales representative. Page layouts were computer generated using Adobe InDesign CS2. The cover was designed by the yearbook staff at a workshop in September. Members of the class were Whitney Litherland, Kristin Fischer, Amanda Albin, Cassie Cain, Christy Tempel, Lesley Perryman, Sara Hess, Kelsey Coyle, Megann Hanks, Stephanie Harth, and Courtney Lawson. The yearbook sold for $45.00, with the opportunity for a $5.00 coupon. It has 136 pages.

The yearbook staff extends a special thanks to Larry Goffinet from the Perry County News for sharing several pictures for our sports section. We would also like to thank Danny Bolin and employees from Danny Bolin photography for helping us out with many other photos for sports, clubs, and events.
